

Spanish Castles Quilt Challenge

In July, I am traveling to Barcelona, Spain, to sing Verdi's Requiem. To help me kick off my adventure, I'm organizing a quilt challenge where we will make a quilt to be donated next year to the fund raising event for the Cheyenne Youth Symphony.

This is a four part quilt challenge. Part One: Starting July 1, enter the challenge by selecting 3 neutral fat quarters from our basket of neutrals ($9). Your buy-in gets you the Spanish Castle Quilt Pattern. Part Two: You have one month to make your block. Return your completed block by August 1. Part Three: Everyone who has entered the challenge and completed the block gets to participate in the "mosaic" portion of the quilt. I will put the quilt top together and then draw a musical image (like a treble clef) on the top of the quilt. Everyone who has completed Part One & Two will have an opportunity to fuse a square of colorful fabric onto the quilt. Make sense? We will "color in" in the treble clef with colorful squares. I will then quilt the quilt and it will be donated the Cheyenne Youth Symphony for an auction at their fund raiser next year.

So what about Part Four? Everyone who enters the challenge, is eligible for Part Four. To enter Part Four, you need to buy 2 fat quarters of colorful fabrics from our basket of colorful fats and one neutral fat quarter. With those fats construct up to two Spanish Castle blocks. Turn in your completed colorful block(s) and you will be entered into a drawing to win a selection of the blocks made by other quilters --each block gets you one entry. Make sense? Make up two colorful Spanish Blocks with the 3 fat quarters. Each block gets you one entry into the drawing. You may enter as many times as you like, but each entry requires you to buy three fat quarters from the colorful basket. Drawing winners will win up to 6 blocks (all depending on how many blocks get turned in). Multiple winners are possible. Timing is the same for this challenge: July 1-August 1.

It sounds like a lot of rules, but it's pretty simple. Make a neutral block, with fats purchased from the store, and help participate in making a quilt to be donated to the Cheyenne Youth Symphony. In addition, make a colorful block and put your name in for a drawing to win up to 6 blocks to make your own Spanish Castle quilt. Don't worry--we will color coordinate the blocks that are turned in.

Stay tuned for the pattern.

"I want my own blog," Becca told me this morning. Don't ask. I know she's a dog.

"Becca, you can't type."

"That's okay, I'll dictate."

"Becca, you can't talk."

"Of course I do. I talk all day long."

"No, you bark at things, but that's not like talking. I'm the only one who talks back and I tell you to be quiet."

"If I didn't bark at the joggers, they'd come over to the fence & try to pet me."

"No they wouldn't." "Yes they would."

"No they... Never mind, why do you want a blog?"

"So I can twitter."

"You mean tweet."

"Exactly." Sigh. Sometimes, it's not easy carrying on a conversation with a mini Aussie.

"Becca?"

"Well, the birds do it all the time." I wasn't expecting this, given the amount of political tv she's been watching lately.

"They wake up at 4:30 in the morning and start this conversation with themselves."

"Do you mean that single bird that starts chatting and no other bird is listening at that hour of the morning?"

"Yup. And it's just talking nonsense, like, 'I'm up. Great day. What's for breakfast? Anyone found good worms? Is anyone else awake?'" And it just repeats over & over again until it wakes up the entire neighborhood. And they all start talking about the same thing. Then they all go back to sleep about 6."

She's right about that. It's really annoying. I'm considering using ear plugs. I had a nocturnal robin one year that started his cacophony about 2 a.m. I shot a potato at him with my spud gun. It worked. He found a different tree.

But spring has come and the birds wake up early. The males are the ones that make the most noise. Becca snorted at that.

"It's that way with humans, too," she observed. "The males are the ones that loudly tweet during the early morning hours. You know, the ALL CAPS tweets."

"Becca, you can't even read. Anyway, the males are establishing their territories, attracting mates and telling everyone within hearing distance that they made it through the treacherous night, and they might just be showing off a bit. Or at least that's one theory. They also use up a lot of energy tweeting and by 6 a.m., they're pooped."

"That's why I bark at them all day," Becca said slyly. "Keeps them up so maybe they'll sleep longer at night."

"And how's that working for you?"

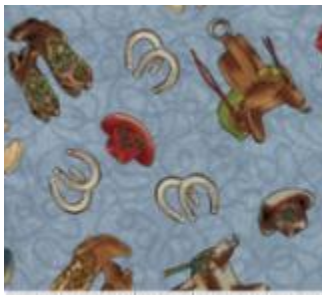

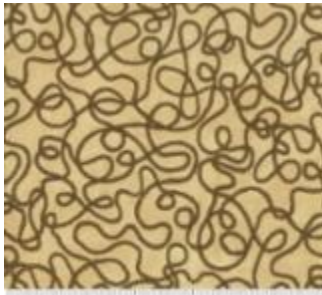

She just glared at me.

"Want some ear plugs?"
