

I'm voting for a return to the mimeograph age. My tablet doesn't even recognize that word, that's how far we've come. My real computer is at the hospital being fixed. it's been a long week of trying to figure out phones, Internet, WiFi, credit card machines and techies. I'd rather be quilting.

next week things should be back to normal. Becca can't wait to talk about new York and I bet she'll have something to say about the Olympics. she's already bought 2 pairs of snowshoes (4 feet, remember....Becca forgot. she had to place a second order).

anyway we have new fabrics in. the space next door is almost done. come by & see. b
